

Film-Analysis

Catfish (2010)

Directors: Henry Joost and Ariel Schulman

In groups:

- a) Describe the family Nev thinks he knows through facebook and his relationship with them. Give as many details as possible.
- b) Describe the real situation, giving as many details as possible. What is true, what is not true?

Questions

- 1) Why is the film called Catfish? Who is the catfish?
- 2) Is this a good metaphor for what happens in the film?
- 3) What is the turning-point in the film, i.e. the point when Nev and his friends discover that something is wrong?
- 4) What steps do they take to investigate further? Would you have done the same thing?
- 5) What are their feelings when they arrive at what they believe to be Megan's house and later at Angela's house?
- 6) What, do you think, were Angela's motives for inventing this "living novel"?
- 7) To what extent is a facebook profile ever a true picture of the person behind it?
- 8) Angela says: "A lot of the personalities that came out were just fragments of myself, fragments of things I always wanted to be, never could be." What, in your opinion, does this statement show us about Angela?
- 9) Do you think this film is a documentary, or is it fiction?
- 10) If it is indeed a documentary, do you consider it acceptable to expose Angela to publicity in this way?
- 11) Study the following quotation from David Kirkpatrick's book The Facebook Effect:
Several other factors make Facebook unlike any Internet business that preceded it. First, it is both in principle and in practice based on real identity. On Facebook it is as important today to be your real self as it was when the service launched at Harvard in February 2004. Anonymity, role-playing, pseudonyms, and handles have always been routine on the Web – AOL screen name, anyone? But they have little role here. If you invent a persona or too greatly enhance the way you present yourself, you will get little benefit from Facebook. Unless you interact with others as yourself, your friends will either not recognize you or will not befriend you. A critical way other people on Facebook know you are who you say you are is by examining your list of friends. These friends, in effect, validate your identity. To get this circular validation process started you have to use your real name.
